CHAP. IV.
Judgment on the wicked, 2 and his bliss.
1 And he spake unto the servants of God, saying, 2 And they shall be as thorns under the feet of the wicked.
3 And they shall be as thorns under the feet of the wicked.
4 Behold, ye shall tread down the wicked, and they shall be as stubble: and the day shall be darkened before them.
5 And the day shall be darkened before them.
6 Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord.
7 Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord.
8 And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

II. MACCABEES.

25 He hanged also Nicanor's head upon the tower, an evident and manifest sign unto the help of the Lord.
35 And they ordained all with a common decree, in no case to let that day pass without solemnity, but to celebrate the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which in the Syrian tongue is called Adar, the day before Mardocheus' day.
37 Thus went it with Nicanor: and from that time forth the Hebrews had the city in their power. And here will I make an end.
39 And if I have done well, and as is fitting the story, it is that which I desired: but if slenderly and meanly, it is that which I could attain unto.
39 For as it is hurtful to drink wine or water alone; and as wine mingled with water is pleasant, and delighteth the taste: even so, speech finely framed, delighteth the ears of them that read the story. And here shall be an end.
