

[COLLINS'S STEREOTYPE EDITION.]

THE
NEW TESTAMENT

OF OUR

LORD AND SAVIOUR

JESUS CHRIST,

TRANSLATED

OUT OF THE ORIGINAL GREEK:

AND

WITH THE FORMER TRANSLATIONS

DILIGENTLY COMPARED AND REVISED.

~~~~~
STEREOTYPED BY B. & J. COLLINS, NEW-YORK.
~~~~~

NEW-YORK:

PRINTED AND SOLD BY COLLINS & CO.

.....
1816.

FAMILY RECORD.

BIRTHS.

BIRTHS.

Clement Cannon sr. was born April 15th 1783

Henry Cannon was born May the 29th 1811

Susannah Locke was born 29th June 1793

Charles Locke Cannon was born February the 14th 1813

Thomas Bath Cannon was born May the 28th 1815

Leticia Thompson Cannon January the 30th 1817

Mary M. Cannon was born April the 18th 1819

Clement Cannon was born April the 1st 1823

FAMILY RECORD.

MARRIAGES.

Clement Cannon
and Susannah
Locke - was Married
9th August - 1810.

Charles Cannon
&
Margt. Hooser
were married on the 15th Decemr 1842.

Tho: B. Cannon &
Emily J. Little were married March 12 1844

MARRIAGES.

Henry Cannon and Sallie C. Pillsbury were married Jan. 10, 1833

Samuel S. Moody
and Letitia S. Cannon
were married
Oct. 29, 1840.

FAMILY RECORD.

DEATHS.

DEATHS.

Mary Cannon
 Departed this life
 March the 12th 1823

Lelement Cannon Sr
 departed this life
 June 19th 1860

John Cannon departed

Sarahannah Cannon
 kept in the arms
 of Jesus on Sunday
 March 15th 1874
 about 4 o'clock P.M.

Emily J. Settle
 wife of W. S. Cannon departed in peace
 on February 25 1895

FAMILY RECORD.

BIRTHS.

George Wharton Moody
Born November 5th. 1847
at Huntsville Ala

Georgie Etta Strong Moody
Born July 24th. 1860
at Shelbyville Tenn
Married March 16th 1881
at Shelbyville Tenn

Children of the above

Winston Gill Moody
Born January 2nd. 1882
at Shelbyville Tenn

Daniel Shaw Moody
August 29th. 1884
at Shelbyville Tenn

Margaret Moody
August 6th. 1889
at Shelbyville Tenn

Winston Gill Moody
Margaret ^{Wilson} Love Moody
Married October 21. 1905

BIRTHS.

Margaret Moody
Morton Brandon King
Married November 22, 1911

Gathered to her Fathers.

DIED—At the residence of Mrs. S. S. Moody, March 15th, at 4:30 P. M., Mrs. Clement Cannon.

We learn from the relatives of the deceased that Mrs. Cannon was born in Halifax county, Virginia, June 29th, 1793. Her father moved to Middle Tennessee at the beginning of the present century. The daughter was married to Clement Cannon in 1810, when the young couple moved to this county, and settled about three-fourths of a mile from where Shelbyville was afterwards located, where they lived happily until 1860, when occurred the death of Mr. Cannon. The subject of this sketch then went to live with her daughter, Mrs. S. S. Moody, with whom she has lived since, and by whom her declining years have been made peaceful and happy.

Her husband, Clement Cannon, Sr., was a brother of Gen. Robt. Cannon, and Newton Cannon, one of the early Governors of Tennessee. He was identified with the early history, the beginning, growth and development of Shelbyville and Bedford county, having donated the ground upon which Shelbyville was built, and contributing freely to every church edifice of every denomination, and every school house and college, that was erected during his life time. He was a humanitarian and christian, and though a Methodist in faith he had no sectarian feeling.

Mrs. Cannon was a remarkable woman, one whom all loved and honored, and there is not a child in the community but what knows, and knowing, regrets, that "Mrs. Cannon, the oldest person in Shelbyville," is dead. She joined the first Methodist church that was organized in this place, over fifty years ago, and for a half century she has walked the paths of christian virtue, and is now reaping the reward of a life of toil, usefulness, patience and godliness. Her children's children are numbered by the score, and she lived to see among them many examples worthy her highest hopes, and to see the happy influences upon her posterity of her own bright character. She suffered, but she never complained; she was weary, but she never gave up. Long after her strength, her vigor of body were wasted, and the last companions of her youth and womanhood were gone, she lived a patient servant of the God who had stricken her, and gave to Him the first love of her heart, and the best works of her clear and never dimmed mind.

Her memory was ever clear, and even up to within an hour of her death, it reflected images, scenes and life struggles, seen and transacted before this century was born, when our nation was an infant, and before the oldest of the patriarchs who are left with us were ushered into existence. But the glass is shattered, life with its trials, troubles and unhappiness has been told "farewell," and she has glided sweetly into the harbor of rest, the port of the eternal city, and, for aught we know, has been welcomed by her fathers, her husband, and the children whom she had sent before. God grant her memory and her example.

Died at his residence in Shelbyville, Tenn., on the morning of June, 1860, at fifteen minutes before 6 o'clock, CLEMENT CANNON, in the seventy-eighth year of his age.

Although the above announcement informs us of an event, which the common course of nature was to be expected, yet, when it has actually occurred, it cannot fail to arrest the attention, and to diffuse a general gloom over the face of the community.

The deceased deserves from us, more than a passing notice, or testimony of respect, having for more than fifty years lived in this community.

He was born in Guilford County, North Carolina, but at an early age removed with his father's family to Williamson county, in this State, where he continued to reside until 1810, when, having become the owner, by purchase, of a tract of land on which the village of Shelbyville is located, he removed to this county, and pitched his tent amidst the thick corn, on the banks of Duck River, and commenced preparing a house for himself and wife, and during the time his house was being built they lived in a camp.

On the 2nd day of May, 1810, he conveyed by deed of gift, to the Commissioners of the town of Shelbyville, one hundred acres of land, at the time a dense forest, with only a single habitation in it, the log cabin of Samuel Musgrove, near the Spring, and the disinterested donor, lived long enough to see grow up on his donation, a beautiful village, at this time containing three thousand inhabitants.—What a source of gratification must have been afforded to the deceased, as he watched the gradual and marked progress of Shelbyville, from its first few new buildings, up to its present state of improvement and prosperity.

He felt the necessity of affording suitable means for the education of the young, hence he gave a lot of five acres of land for the purpose of erecting upon it, a County Academy, and was one of the largest contributors, and most active trustees, in the management of the first Female Academy, whose Superintendent occupies the first Academy building, now occupied as a residence by his brother, Gen. Robert Cannon, was erected.

Notwithstanding the difficulties of supporting himself and family, in a new and thinly settled country; yet, in 1812, a call was made to the citizens soldiers for volunteers to engage in the Creek War, Clement Cannon was one of the first that enlisted in the service, and during the hardships and dangers of the campaign, acted his part well, and by his individual perseverance in the duties of the campaign, when actual starvation was upon them, he clearly demonstrated his capacity, and his great worth.

After his return from the war, his time was passed in the quiet of agricultural life, undisturbed by the excitements of war. His habits were simple, and his conduct in all the walks of life, the consciousness of wrong's solemnly inflicted on his fellow man, wonder, therefore, he lived to a good old age, and that he passed away at the end of long, laborious and useful career, respected and loved by all.

He was invariably honest, and just in his dealings, and which was most gratified by the request he made of his children on his death bed, that he had promised anything, or that they would perform any duty, unless it could be collected by law or not, and in detailing them small debts that he was owing to other's and of which the creditors have no evidence.

He was charitable to the full extent of his ability. He was always open to relief of suffering humanity, and that too, in such a quiet manner that it was seldom seen of men. It is gratifying now to hear the poor, who never appealed to him in vain, telling with full hearts and Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of the citizens of Shelbyville on the 10th June, the following proceedings were had. On motion of Ed. Cooper, Esq., Dr. Thos. Lipscomb was called to the chair and Saml. H. Whitthorne Esq., was appointed Secretary. The chairman in a brief and appropriate address, explained the object of the meeting, after which, on motion, Thos. H. Coldwell, H. F. Holt Esq., Dr. R. N. Wallace, John H. O'Neal, and Wm. G. Cowan, were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting.

The committee (after retiring) through their chairman, Thos. H. Coldwell, Esq. presented the following preamble and resolutions which on motion were unanimously adopted.

Whereas, Death has again come in our midst and removed one of our oldest, most worthy and most respected citizens. (Clement Cannon sr.) One who came to this place in his youthful prime, when the spot on which our town now stands was a wilderness, and has for more than half a century lived amongst us, enjoying the respect and confidence of all who knew him, both for his many acts of kindness and his honest and upright bearing to all men. Amongst the first acts of his life we find him making liberal donations for the use of the public to the commissioners who laid off our town, and that same spirit of liberality seems to have controlled his actions throughout a long and well spent life. A man who could command the warm and zealous support of his neighbors for almost any position, yet he preferred the quiet of home and its joys to the glittering seats of office, but when in 1812 his country needed the services of the patriotic and the brave to repel a foreign force, he volunteered, and as a private discharged the arduous duties which devolved upon the citizen soldier of that day. And now, after a long life spent in the discharge of his duties as a husband, a father, and a citizen, like a ripe sheaf he is gathered to his fathers.

Therefore resolved, That whilst we bow in humble submission to the will of an all wise and merciful God, yet it is with deep and sincere regret, that we mourn the loss of one of our oldest and most valued citizens—who in all the varied relations of life has ever acted well his part, whose honesty of purpose and blameless life had won the confidence and esteem of all.

Resolved, That we tender to the family of the deceased, our highest sympathies in their bereavement, and especially do we mourn with her who in youth became his wife, and now when time has laid his afflictive hand upon her, she is called to follow to the grave the kind and loving husband with whom she has so long walked in life.

Resolved, That as an evidence of the esteem in which we hold the memory of Clement Cannon, sr. we will attend his funeral on tomorrow, and that as far as practicable we will close our business houses until after his funeral.

Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings of this meeting be sent to the family of the deceased and the Shelbyville Expositor, True Union and Herald of Truth be requested to publish the same.

The meeting was then addressed by Messrs. Ed. Cooper, B. M. Tillman, and S. H. Whitthorne.

On motion of Thos. H. Coldwell Esq., the following gentlemen: Wm. Galbreath, Esq., Thomas Holland, Jas. C. Martin, Esq., Newcomb Thompson, sr., Thomas M. Coldwell and Maj. W. J. Whitthorne were requested to act as poll bearers.

On motion of B. M. Tillman the containing three thousand inhabitants.—

What a source of gratification must have been afforded to the deceased, as he watched the gradual and marked progress of Shelbyville, from its first few new buildings, up to its present state of improvement and prosperity.

He felt the necessity of affording suitable means for the education of the young,
hence he gave a lot of five acres of land for the purpose of erecting upon it, a County Academy, and was one of the largest contributors, and most active trustee in the management of the first Female Academy, and whose Superintendence the first Academy building, now occupied as a residence by his brother,
Gen. Robert Cannon, was erected.

Notwithstanding the difficulties of supporting himself and family, in a new and thinly settled country; yet, in 1812, a call was made to the citizens soldiers for volunteers to engage in the Creek War, Clement Cannon was one of the first that enlisted in the service, and during the hardships and dangers of the campaign, acted his part well, and by his individual perseverance in the duties of the campaign, when actual starvation was upon them, he clearly demonstrated his capacity, and his great worth.

After his return from the war, his time was in the quiet of agricultural life, undisturbed by the excitements of war. His habits were simple and his conduct in all the walks of life, marked by the consciousness of wrong's injury inflicted on his fellow man.
Wonder, therefore, he lived to a great old age, and that he passed away at the end of long, laborious and useful years, respected and loved by all.

He was invariably honest and just in his dealings, and which was most demonstrated by the request he made of his children on his death bed,
that they would perform
no promise that they would perform by law or not, and in detailing them small debts that he was owing to other's and of which the creditors have no evidence.

He was charitable to the full extent of his ability. He was always open to relief of suffering humanity, and that too,
in such a quiet manner that it was seldom seen of men. It is gratifying now to hear the poor, who never appealed to him in vain, telling with full hearts and with weeping lips, of his many kindness-to them in the chill winter, and in seasons of great scarcity.

The citizens of Bedford County, who knew him well, fully appreciated his character and his qualities. We are instinctively reverenced the true nobility of his disposition; his purity of thought and action; his loving kindness to those in distress; his disinterested charities;
his unostentatious liberality; and his unselfish delight in contributing to the happiness of all with he associated.

Observing moderation in all of his dealings he never felt the effects of corroding passion, and he was thereby enabled to go on the even tenor of his way without much difficulty with others.

By such conduct his integrity was preserved untarnished; his health was promoted, and his days were prolonged.—
And the consciousness of a well spent life, void of offence toward his fellow men scathed him in his last sickness, and enabled him to bear with patience and fortitude,
the afflictions which under a wise
Providence was heavily layed upon him.

What an example is furnished to us all,
and especially consoling to his afflicted family, is the quiet and resigned death of such a man—who at the age of near three score years and ten, passed away so calmly, so patiently, so unrepentingly.

June 25th, 1860.

E. C.

the commissioners who laid off our town, and that same spirit of liberality seems to have controlled his actions
throughout a long and well spent life.
A man who could command the warm and zealous support of his neighbors for almost any position, yet he preferred the quiet of home and its joys to the glittering seals of office,
but when in 1812 his country needed
the services of the patriotic and the brave to repel a foreign force, he volunteered, and as a private discharged
the arduous duties which devolved upon the citizen soldier of that day.
And now, after a long life spent in the discharge of his duties as a husband,
a father, and a citizen, like a ripe sheaf
he is gathered to his fathers.

Therefore resolved, That whilst we bow in humble submission to the will of an all wise and merciful God, yet it is with deep and sincere regret, that we mourn the loss of one of our oldest and most valued citizens—who in all the varied relations of life has ever acted well his part, whose honesty of purpose and blameless life had won the confidence and esteem of all.

Resolved, That we tender to the family of the deceased, our highest sympathies in their bereavement, and especially do we mourn with her who in youth became his wife and now when time has laid his afflictive hand upon her, she is called to follow to the grave
the kind and loving husband with whom she has so long walked in life.

Resolved, That as an evidence of the esteem in which we hold the memory of Clement Cannon, sr. we will attend his funeral on tomorrow, and that as far as practicable we will close our business houses until after his funeral.

Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings of this meeting be sent to the family of the deceased and the Shelbyville Expositor, True Union and Herald of Truth be requested to publish the same.

The meeting was then addressed by Messrs. Ed. Cooper, B. M. Tillman,
and S. H. Whitthorne.

On motion of Thos. H. Coldwell
Esq., the following gentlemen: Wm.
Galbreath, Esq., Thomas Holland, Jas.
C. Martin, Esq., Newcomb Thompson,
sr., Thomas M. Coldwell and Maj. W.
J. Whitthorne were requested to act
as poll bearers.

On motion of B. M. Tillman the meeting adjourned.

THOS. LIPSCOMB, Pres't.

S. H. WHITTHORNE, Sec.

*National Society of Colonial Dames
of America in Tennessee*