Mr. Sam Culppeper, who lived on J. W. Cravens farm on Red river, died last week of a congestive chill. Mr. Culppeper was born and reared in East Tennessee; came to Tamm in 1870. Mr. Culppeper was in many respects a good man. He always paid his debts and told the truth. He of course had his faults—who hasn't—but his faults affected himself more than any one else. He belonged to no church, but believed in Christ and a Supreme God. He always assisted in preparing for religious meetings and was charitable to the poor. He left a wife and about eight children. A large concourse of his friends attended his burial at Mulberry.
